Music Development plan

Music purpose of study

Music is a universal language that embodies one of the highest forms of creativity. A high quality music education should engage and inspire pupils to develop a love of music and their talent as musicians, and so increase their self-confidence, creativity and sense of achievement. As pupils progress, they should develop a critical engagement with music, allowing them to compose, and to listen with discrimination to the best in the musical canon.

St Benedict's School's Vision & Intent:

At St Benedict's, our Music curriculum intends to inspire creativity and self-expression and to encourage children on their musical journeys as well as giving them opportunities to connect with others. We hope to foster a life-long love of Music by exposing them to a diverse range of musical experiences and igniting a passion for Music within some children. By listening and responding to different musical styles, we hope that all children will become confident, reflective musicians and to find their 'voices' as singers, players, performers and composers. We hope it will play a part in their understanding, appreciation and enjoyment of 'Life in all its Fullness' (John 10:10).

The Music curriculum at St Benedict's ensures that children sing, listen, play, perform and evaluate. This is embedded through classroom Music lessons which follow the National Curriculum Guidelines, as well as weekly singing assemblies, various performances, the learning of instruments and the joining of extra-curricular music groups. The elements of Music are taught in classroom lessons so children are able to use the language of Music to discuss it and to understand how it is made, played and appreciated. In the classroom, children learn how to play a range of pitched and unpitched percussion instruments and also to play the recorder. In doing so they understand the different principles of creating notes and sounds, as well as learning how to devise and read their own musical scores and basic staff notation. They also learn how to compose using instruments, vocal sounds and body percussion, which in turn, feeds their understanding when listening, playing or analysing music.

The Self-Evaluation Tool - PRIMARY

The tool is split into the following sub-headings and should be seen as a formative, ongoing process:

In the classroom: This section focuses on the statutory requirements of music education, including the taught curriculum and curriculum progression routes across the key stages. It also includes consideration of the space and resources necessary to teach music effectively.

Beyond the classroom: The focus of this section is the provision beyond curriculum music, including co-curricular activities, individual and small group teaching, and performance opportunities.

Leadership and management: The staffing and training of staff is included in this section, including subject leadership and strategic thinking.

The School Music Development Plan is a key part of this section.

The community and partnerships: This section considers the role that music plays in the wider community, including how a music department can work in partnership with their Music hub and other stakeholders, including the wider music education sector.

The self-evaluation tool includes the following four levels that outline how schools could build their provision over time:

Focusing: The school is beginning to focus on this area. Action is taken to achieve this by the school, but it is either minimal, not successful, or in its early stages.

Developing: The school is actively trying to develop this area. Several different actions are being taken over a sustained period of time, which are beginning to show progress, even if in their early stages. The actions taken are more developed than in focusing.

Establishing: Over time, the school has established provision that shows successful implementation of this area within the school's music education offer.

Enhancing: Over time, the school has created nationally significant provision that is able to have impact at scale. Schools that identify themselves in this category could be considered for the 'Lead School' role with their Music Hub. The evaluation process places the improvement and enhancement of the school's music education provision at the heart of the school life. New and innovative ways to meet this sub-heading area are in place, or are being developed in the school.

In the classroom	Music is delivered ad hoc and not in every year group, it is not accessible to all.	Music is a timetabled subject, with schemes of work and assessment in place. All students are able to access this curriculum from EYFS to Year 6.	Music is timetabled for at least one hour per week and follows the NC/MMC.	Curriculum goes beyond level of the national curriculum, seeking to address social disadvantage by addressing gaps in knowledge, skills and experiences (i.e., concerts, live events)

Additional WCET is delivered to other year groups/classes.
	Progress is not measured/limited.	Students engage with schemes of work and skills are developed. Teachers' assessment is evident.	Good progress is demonstrated by secure and incremental learning of the technical, constructive, and expressive aspects of music, developing musical understanding.	Progress is measured and assessment informative. Planning takes into account KS3 expectations.
	Limited resources are available.	There is adequate space and resources for teaching, including class sets of tuned and untuned instruments.	Students with SEND are able to participate and progress well (supported by technology, tools and adapted instruments) Space	There is a designated music space within the school. Further points for consideration: Composing and creating music Creating music is another core tenet of the NC and should be explored from the start of a child’s school music education. Teachers may find it useful to consider the details provided by the Model Music Curriculum. Listening Listening to music is fundamental to musical understanding, and so is at the heart of the music curriculum. By learning to listen critically, students not only expand their musical horizons but also gain a deeper understand of the context of when a piece of music was written, how it is constructed and the impact it can have on the listener. Limited signposting to music opportunities within the wider community/SFS takes place. support at events and through home learning. Students are signposted to music opportunities within the wider community/SFS. The school actively signposts all students to music opportunities within the wider community/SFS and funds opportunities for them. The school actively signposts all students to music opportunities within the wider community/SFS and facilities opportunities for students from other schools within their own school setting. Teachers should be proactively inclusive in their approach to choosing repertoire for listening and may find it useful to consider the repertoire suggested in the MMC. Pupil Voice The inclusion of pupil voice is important to inform planning, repertoire selection and school events.
